

Invites you to:

3rd Annual Development Education Conference

‘Re-imagining Development Education’

Wednesday 9 April 2008

St. Mary’s University College, Belfast

10am-5pm

This conference will assess the current state of development education and investigate new approaches to its practice, including the Open Spaces for Dialogue and Enquiry methodology, internet and media techniques, business methods, cross-border networking, strategic campaigning partnerships and how to understand, work with, and mutually benefit from other adjectival education sectors. It seeks to identify and expunge expired perceptions of DE and promote visible and effective methods of engagement with the formal, nonformal and informal sectors.

‘Re-imagining Development Education’ is organised by the Centre for Global Education as part of a Capacity Building in Development Education project, funded by Irish Aid. The project also organises two training seminars per annum and publishes a biannual journal, Policy and Practice: A Development Education Review.

To register, or for further information, please contact Jenna Coriddi:

jenna@centreforglobaleducation.com

This event is funded by Irish Aid